“Happy holidays, Jeff!”

“And happy holidays to you, Mike. You seem to be in a good mood.”

“That I am! I just finished my last writing assignment of the year, and am about to take off to do the last of my Christmas shopping!”

“So the What’s Happenin’ pages are done, then?”

“That they are! As usual for this time of year, we’re treating readers to our special centerspread What’s Happenin’ on New Year’s Eve, which gives the lowdown on the area venues that are hosting live music, karaoke, or DJs prior to midnight on January 1. We include information on what time the music starts, whether there’s a cover charge, and what New Year’s treats – party favors, appetizers, champagne – folks can look forward to, along with venue phone numbers and street and Web addresses for added convenience. Plus, it goes without saying that all of the bands and venues are also listed on the Live Music pages in the back of the Reader.”

"I hope everyone knows, too, that the article will be online at RiverCitiesReader.com, which means we'll be able to add and update New Year's Eve information all the way through December 31."

"I made a point of mentioning it, yes."

"Looks like you're done, then. So who else do you have to shop for?"

"Actually ... just you, sir! Is there anything in particular you'd like this year?"

"You know what I'd love? A continued reprieve from those asinine Jeff-and-Mike conversations than are normally on the What's Happenin' pages. It's been months since I've seen one, and I'm enjoying the break."

"Hmm ... ."

"What?"

"How would you feel about socks?"

The River Cities' Reader staff wishes you all a safe and happy New Year!
