- Mark Sanborn, best-selling author of The Fred Factor
- Steve Uzzell, award-winning corporate photographer and former staff member of National Geographic
- Dave “The Shef” Sheffield, top selling author and “Always Better Your Best” motivational expert

The idea for the Chick-fil-A Leadercast was conceived ten years ago by Dr. John C. Maxwell, “New York Times” best-selling author and speaker. He wanted to combine his influential voice in the community with his desire to reach leaders at the heart level.

What started out as a half day, classroom-format event with John Maxwell teaching has since become a full-day, experiential conference featuring authors, leadership experts and practitioners.

“The event was a highlight in my development,” said Jennifer Boubel, director of field services for Continental Airlines. “Each speaker brought insights that were inspiring. It is an incredible way to improve upon our leadership so that in turn we can make a difference in the lives of those we influence.”

This year’s program will focus on how to be the one to make a difference at work, at home and in the community. Topics include connecting with others, standing out amid the competition, ideas for creative problem solving, leading in challenging times, creating strong team cultures and how to avoid, detect and reverse decline.

“Leadership is about who you are within,” said Bill George, Harvard Business School professor and author of True North. “I think it’s important to ... listen to leaders to reflect on the kind of leader you want to become.”
