In the most recent USA Today/Gallup survey, Republican frontrunner Herman Cain now ties Gov. Romney as the leader for the GOP presidential nomination in polling of likely Republican voters that was conducted Nov. 2-6. Mr. Cain now polls at 21 percent, a 3 percent increase from early October.

"I am delighted to see these latest poll numbers. It is clear to my supporters and me that the American people will not allow my bold "9-9-9 Plan", clear foreign policy vision and plans for energy independence to be overshadowed by bogus attacks," said Herman Cain.
