In case you missed it...

After yesterday's announcement that Rep. Bruce Braley was taking the first steps toward running for the US Senate seat being vacated by retiring Sen. Tom Harkin, one thing is clear: excitement is building about a Braley candidacy.

"I've known Bruce Braley since long before he came to Congress. He's a good friend, a great congressman, someone who fights passionately for the middle class, for veterans, and for lowans." -Sen. Tom Harkin [The Hawk Eye , 2/8/13]

"The local Democratic Party, almost without exception, welcomes [Braley's] candidacy, was hoping he would run, thinks he would be the strongest candidate for the party. So we are very, very pleased. I think it takes some of the disappointment away from the Harkin announcement." -Greg Guelcher, Chair, Woodbury County Democratic Party [Sioux City Journal , 2/7/13]

"There appears to be a lot of support for Braley." -Ken Sagar, Treasurer, Iowa Democratic Party [AP , 2/7/13]

"[Braley] has a reputation for being smart, ambitious, and ready for higher office, Democratic insiders have said. In November 2012, he earned the most votes of any US House candidate in Iowa." [Des Moines Register , 2/7/13]

"The congressman enters the race to succeed retiring Sen. Tom Harkin as the frontrunner." [Politico , 2/7/13]

"Iowa Democrats have their man." [National Journal , 2/7/13]
