

Delta announces mainline jet service for first time in history to Quad City International Airport

Written by Cathie Rochau
Tuesday, 16 April 2013 14:08

- Buy OEM Pitney Bowes MapInfo Professional 11.5
- Download Photoshop CC For Dummies
- 149.95\$ Microsoft Project Professional 2013 cheap oem
- Buy Cheap Lynda.com - After Effects CS6 Essential Training
- 29.95\$ Sony Vegas Movie Studio HD Platinum 11 cheap oem
- Buy OEM Macrabbbit CSSEdit 2 MAC
- Buy Cheap Microsoft Office 2010 Home and Business with SP1 \(32-bit & 64-bit\)
- Buy Cheap Adobe Visual Communicator 3
- 99.95\$ Rosetta Stone - Learn Spanish \(Spain\) \(Level 1, 2, 3, 4 & 5 Set\) cheap oem
- Download Acala DivX DVD Player Assist
- Discount - Infinite Skills - Learning Microsoft Excel 2013 MAC
- Download Apple Motion 5 MAC
- 199.95\$ Autodesk Softimage 2011 cheap oem

(Moline/Quad Cities) For the first time in history, Delta Air Lines will provide mainline service to the Quad City International Airport. Airport officials were informed late last week that Delta will use an A-319 Airbus once per day, for one departure and one arrival. The aircraft seats 126 passengers- twelve in first class, and 114 in coach.

Flights will be to/from Atlanta, and will depart the Quad Cities at 6:00 a.m., arriving in Atlanta at 8:51 a.m. The evening flight will depart Atlanta at 9:21 p.m., and arrive in Moline/Quad Cities at 10:17 p.m. (All times local.) These flight times are already in the current schedule, along with two other daily arrivals and departures offered between Moline and Atlanta by Delta.

Bruce Carter, Director of Aviation, says “We are very excited that Delta is inaugurating service with a mainline aircraft. This opens up more opportunities for operating larger aircraft from the Quad City International Airport. We have already made the investment in special ground handling equipment to support the A-319 operations,” Carter adds. “We know our leisure and corporate travelers, in particular, who use these flights for domestic and international connections through the Atlanta hub, will enjoy and appreciate the upgraded aircraft.”

The flights utilizing the A-319 will begin June 10, 2013. Delta currently serves the Quad Cities with three popular hub, or connecting cities: Atlanta, Detroit, and Minneapolis-St. Paul.

The Quad City International Airport strives to make travel an easier experience. There are four airlines serving travelers from throughout eastern Iowa and Western Illinois. There are currently 10 nonstop destinations, with dozens of daily departures and hundreds of connections beyond.

Delta announces mainline jet service for first time in history to Quad City International Airport

Written by Cathie Rochau
Tuesday, 16 April 2013 14:08

Visit qairport.com .

#