"The Living Matrix"

movie:

directed and produced by

Harry Massey and Greg Becker

as informational medicine becomes more prevalent and mainstream, this movie talks about how different energy systems and information medicine are used in healing.

There are many other important definitions and studies presented in this movie. The definitions of "Energy Cardiology", "The Placebo Affect", "Meridian Lines" and more all point to a new way of looking at healing, in addition to the importance of conventional medicine.

From some of the world's top geneticists and scientists, this film was masterfully crafted to
