[DUBUQUE, IA] DubuqueFest Fine Arts Festival, scheduled for May 20-22 in downtown Dubuque announces the appointment of Paula Neuhaus as their new art fair director. Neuhaus has spent the last five years working in non-profit arts administration including program development and promotion. Neuhaus is the Director of Maquoketa Art Experience in Maquoketa, Iowa and developmental coordinator for the Eastern Iowa Cultural Alliance. She also manages two independent projects; Wordcure Spoken Word Series and Art Gumbo Micro-funding Program that provides funding to Dubuque artists and arts groups. Neuhaus served five years on the Board of Directors for Dubuque County Fine Arts Society and volunteers with the Dubuque Winter Farmers Market. She holds degrees from both Loras College and University of Iowa.

“Goals of the DubuqueFest 2011 committee,” Neuhaus says, “Include enhancing the reputation of this art fair as one that offers the best in fine art and fine craft in the region and to attract serious buyers who believe in directly supporting artists & artisans who are creating original work.” Neuhaus joins current DubuqueFest Festival Director, Aaron Hefel in co-management of the all arts festival including children’s art activities, a two-day art fair, and three days of live music on two stages.

“Paula has served on the DubuqueFest committee since 2007,” Hefel said, “She brings a lot of new ideas to the table with her experience in arts and culture development.”
